fers; the cause of Christ suffers, Fifth .- It is the duty of the Church to support its Pastor. The Lord of the harvest has made it the duty of the church to render unto its Pastor a rea sonable compensation for his services. He tells the disciples, that, "the laborer is worthy of his hire." Luke x : 7 Paul, in writing to the Corinthians uses the following impressive language : "Who goeth a warfare at any time at his own charges? who planteth a vine. yard and exteth not of the fruit thereof? or who feedeth a flock, and esteth not of the milk of the flock? say I these things as a man? or sayith not the law the same also? for it is written in the law of Moses. Thou shalt not muzzle the mouth of the ox that treadeth out the corn. Doth God take care for oxen? or sayith be it altogether for our sakes? for our sakes, no doubt, this is written that he that plougheth should plow in bore; and he that thresheth in hope should be partaker of his hope. If we have sown unto you spiritual things, is it a great thing it we shall reap your carnal things. Do ye not know that they which minister about holy things, live of the things of the temple? and they which wait at the altar are partskers with the altar? Even so hath the Lord ordained, that they which preach the gospel should live of the gospel," 1 Cor. 1x: 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 13, 14 "Let him that is taught in the word communicate unto him that teacheth in all good things," Gal. vi: 6 The church expects the Pastor to be faithful in reviving it, and to enable him to do so, it should see that he is not compelled to leave the word of God, and serve tablas. The Lord has commanded the Pastor, to give himself wholly, to the preaching of the word; and the church to support him. The church expects the Pastor to serve them punctually. and if he does not do it, will som times murmur, but think it very strange if he asks for what the Lord Kansas," allows him.

"If any man provide not for his own, and specially for those of his own house, he hath denied the faith, and is worse than an infidel." 1 Tim. v: 8. If the church fails to support the pastor, they place him in a condition where he must either neglect his family, or measurably abandon the work of the ministry; and in either case incur the displeasure of the Lord. And will that displeasure rest alone upon the officially kissed the bridegroom. minister? There are ministers who, to day, are tied to the farm, the shop, the school room, or the counter; their talents buried, and the ministry partially, or entirely given up, for which the churches are responsible. BOIL IT DOWN.

Whatever you have to say, my friend, Whether witty, or grave, or gay, Condense as much as ever you can, And say in the readiest way; And whethe you write on rural affairs, Or particular toings in town, Just take a word of friendly advice-

For if you go spluttering over a page, When a couple of lines would do.

Your butter is spread so much, you see,
That the bread looks plainly through So when you have a story o tell. Aud would like a little renown, To make quite sure of your wish, my friend, Boil it down.

Boil it down.

When writing an article for the press, Whether prose, or versa, just try To utte your thoughts in the fewest words, And let them be erisp and dry; And when it is finished, and you suppose It is done exact y brown, Just look it over again, and then Boil it down

For aditors do not like to print An article lazily long, And the reader dues not care For a couple of yards of song, So gather your wits in the smallest space It you'd win the author's crown, And every time you write, my friend, Boil it down.

How to gather and preserve plants. The ladies are deeply interested in thi subject, which we are glad to see is becoming more popular every year. A good, healthy ramble in the fields or woods, gath ring dainty flowers and beautiful leaves is a for more inspiriting and stimulating means of enjoyment than crochet work and poetry reading insdoors.

The Maine Farmer again pleases the lady reader with a little practical information as to how to do it nicely and well.

1. If possible, gather plants upon a dry day, and protect them from sunlight and wind. 2. Plants should be gathered when in flower. 3. A single specimen should be a perfect representative of the plant- not only the flower, but bud, fruit, or seed, all its various ki ds of leaves, and. in small plants, even the root. With some plants these can all be represented in the same specimen, but with others it is necessary to collect specimens both in flower and in fruit. 4. If the plant be small, dry the whole, root, stalk, and flower; if large, a branch in flower should be preserved; at any rate a flower with the leaves should be dried, if possible.

5. Plants should be thoroughly dried between sheets of paper-old newspapers will answer. Two kinds of paper are needed in d ying them, namely folds and dryers. It is almost equally important to have a spout to convey rain DR. LAWRENCE'S water from the 100f of the barn in some other direction than immediately through the barnyard. It is bad enough that the manure heap should be exposed to the rains which full directly upon it without addiag to it the droppings from the roof of the barn.

If s ch improvident farmers were to behold the actual value of the fertilizing material thus lost, rolling from their purses in the shape of dollars and cents, how energetically would be the labor to pervent this waste. The loss of a single little gold dollar would stir them up to a greater activity than the direct waste of a hundred times that little dollar's value in the fr m of liquid manure.
